THEODORE M. HESBURGH RESEARCH TRAVEL GRANT

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh (1917-2015) was president of the University of Notre Dame from 1952 to 1987, a priest of the Congregation of Holy Cross, and an influential figure in higher education, American public life, and international affairs. A noted public intellectual, he worked tirelessly on behalf of causes ranging from the Civil Rights Movement to the development of collegiate athletic programs and the mission of modern Catholic universities.

Hesburgh’s unique perspective and prodigious contributions stand to enrich a broad range of studies in American social, religious, and political history, as well as ongoing discussions in public policy, the philosophy of education, and peace studies. The Archives of the University of Notre Dame house primary source material documenting Hesburgh’s life and work, and the Cushwa Center is offering travel grants to make these materials more readily available to scholars. Visit archives.nd.edu/hesburgh for links to finding aids and to explore collections.
